

W. P. Carey School of Business Tour

McCord Hall Concourse

- The McCord Hall Concourse is an outdoor space that seat up to 250 for school events.
- McCord Hall was built in 2013 and is home to our 13 on-campus MBA and specialized masters programs.
- Built through generous donations, including naming gift from Sharon Dupont McCord and her late husband, Bob.
- McCord Hall is LEED Gold certified and uses 35% less energy than other ASU buildings.

Avnet Lounge

- Avnet is a technology company headquartered in the Valley, who helped us equip this room for guest speakers, info sessions, company presentations, etc.
- State-of-the-art technology is enjoyed by students who often use the space for watching the news and staying up to date with world business.
- At the end of the hall, Freshii is a casual dining restaurant that serves healthy soups, salads, bowls, and snacks.
- The south wing of the building includes classrooms for our graduate programs, including our specially outfitted MRED classroom.

Third Floor, McCord Hall

- We passed the second floor, which includes classrooms and team rooms for graduate students, as well as some administrative offices.
- Third floor is home to our Graduate Programs administration and staff and our McCord Hall Interview Center.
- We work with companies that recruit our students to host convenient on-campus interviews with candidates.
- The W. P. Carey Foundation recently invested another $25 million in the school, including $15 million to expand our career management services for students and employers.

Fourth Floor, McCord Hall

- The fourth floor of McCord Hall is reserved for Executive MBA students and special events, such as conferences and private receptions.
- Toward the south wing, we have a patio and meeting space called the Oasis. It's used for meetings, workshops, training sessions, and special events.
- We host a happy hour here each month for faculty, staff, and EMBA and PhD students to come together in community on a Friday evening.
- You can also see the Oculus, the unique architectural element in the roof where a circle cut out is surrounded with different colored LED lights that reflect on the panels at night creating a beautiful campus trademark.
- If you continue down the south wing, you will find our Development, Marketing and Communications and Accounting departments.
- We also just designed a flat classroom with tiered furniture for our latest EMBA classroom — providing stadium feel without modifying the flooring and allowing for standing desks in the back row of the room.
- Let's check out room 422, which is used for EMBA students and executive education.
- Our classrooms are equipped with state-of-the-art technology, including touch panel AV control, document camera projectors, the latest in screens and microphones, lecture capture, and equipped for Adobe Connect, Vidyo and WebEx.
- EMBA students also have unlimited access to a kitchen stocked with a coffee bar, snacks, and drinks.

Exiting McCord Hall

- As we head back downstairs to finish up in McCord Hall, you will notice Leader's Academy.
- Leaders Academy is the only space in this building for undergraduate students.
- The high-achieving students who are in Leaders Academy have designated advisors and study space in this building.

Business Administration, C Wing

- We call this building the B-A-C—or, the C-wing of Business Administration.
- This building was constructed in 1982 to accommodate a quickly growing student population.
- This is the lobby of the building that houses classrooms for undergraduate students, academic departments, and our Dean's office on the 6th floor.
- Award panels show recognition for faculty and staff, students, entrepreneurship, the Executive of the Year, and Alumni Hall of Fame.

Dean's Patio

- The Dean's Patio is a major hang out for our undergraduate students, meet-ups, and clubs.
- Starbucks located inside the first floor of the BAC building makes this a popular place for students, faculty, and staff to get a quick coffee break.
- Located close to many of our student service centers, such as admissions, advising, career management, and the Global Education Center.
- Just a minute's walk from ASU's Memorial Union, which includes conference space, ASU Changemaker Central, study areas, and lots of food options.
- This sculpture of horses to the south of the Dean's Patio is called Spirit; a gift from Mort Fleischer, one of our most generous donors, and is a reminder that in a free society there are no limits to the creative possibilities of our ideas.
- We are also known for our #1 ranking in U.S. News & World Report for Innovation – for five consecutive years, since the rankings first inception.

Business Administration, First Floor

- Our final stop is the original Business Administration building, built in 1968.
- It houses undergraduate program administration, Career Management and Employer Engagement, classrooms, and academic departments.
- We serve more than 14,000 undergrad students in 30+ different business degree programs
- We are also on 3 additional ASU campus locations in other cities in Arizona.
- The first floor of BA includes the student engagement entrance—a team of staffers who work with our students on programming, leadership development, clubs and student organizations, and scholarships.
- We also have the Hall of Deans, which honors the past and current school leadership. Dean Amy Hillman is one of the few women deans of a U.S. business school.

Business Administration, Second Floor

- On the second floor of BA, you will find the undergraduate student suite with space to study and meet with teams, and even reserve rooms for group work.
- The Student Success Center provides tutoring support to students, in addition to another Center in the business residence halls.
- There is also a veteran's suite to better support our students who bravely served our country.
- Finally, the One Button Studio allows faculty to produce their own video assets for on campus and online classes with the push of a button.
- Our Instructional Design team helps incorporate the latest learning technologies for our students and has helped produce over 18,000 videos to date!

Exit toward Dean's Patio

- That concludes our tour of the W. P. Carey School of Business campus.
- We hope that you not only saw the state-of-the-art classrooms and expansive student services offerings, but also our commitment to making this place feel like home to our students, alumni, faculty, and staff.
- W. P. Carey is a place where we all seek to grow as individuals and members of a global community, where we work together to engage the world and create a better future, and where we always remember that business is personal.
- Thanks for joining us!
